- Az utasításokat pontosan kell követni. Csak az utasításban megadott helyre beírt megoldás fogadható el.

- Mindig csak egy megoldást szabad beírni.

- A betűjelek legyenek jól olvashatóak, az esetleges javítások pedig egyértelműek.

- A megadott szószámot nem szabad túllépni. Az összevont alakok egy szónak számítanak (pl. “it’s” egy szó, “it is” két szó).
Task 1

- Read this article about some beautiful tourist spots and then read the questions (1-8) that follow.
- Your task is to give short answers consisting of maximum two words based on the information in the article.
- Write your answers on the dotted lines after the questions.
- There is an example (0) for you.

ISLAND HOPPING

Some of the best places to visit in the world are much closer than you might think

If you live in Britain, you don’t have to go far to find places listed in the book Unforgettable Islands To Escape To Before You Die. It only takes a couple of hours to scoot away and explore everything from snowy Arctic wastes to balmy Mediterranean paradises. Here are some must-sees...

The Southern Dalmatian islands of Croatia are some of the most untouched parts of the Mediterranean. Until recently, many of them were closed by the military. But this doesn’t mean they lack charm. You can walk the cobbled streets of the fortified town of Korcula, (alleged birthplace of Marco Polo), eat fresh fish in the hidden harbour of Lastovo or visit the Blue Cave – so called because of the effect of sunlight shining through an underwater entrance.

The best way to see the islands is by boat. Sail Croatia offers good prices on skippered yachts. At night you can moor in a quiet spot and eat on board or drop anchor closer to shore and hang out in a restaurant. During the day, explore the islands or sail to a deserted cove to swim in bright turquoise water.

The Svalbard Archipelago, comprising over a thousand islands, almost all of them uninhabited, is officially part of Norway but is well within the Arctic Circle. In the winter, the sun never shines but in the short summer there is permanent daylight. The archipelago is home to the fierce polar bear. They wander freely across the pack ice, hunting for seals. If you walk outside the tiny settlement of Longyearbyen on the island of Spitsbergen, you are advised to have an armed guard to keep you safe.

The remote east of Svalbard is stunningly beautiful, with mountains, glaciers and kilometres of floating pack ice. The Explorer, owned by Gap Adventures, cruises these waters looking out for polar bears, walruses and reindeer.

Closer to home, don’t miss the Isles of Scilly. Just off the coast of Cornwall, each of these islands has its own character. Bryher is sometimes hit by gale force winds that sweep in from the Atlantic, but the islands generally enjoy a balmy sub-tropical climate. On Tresco you can walk through forests of giant tree ferns from New Zealand and appreciate cacti from all over the world. There are kilometres of unspoilt beaches, as well as the highest concentration of archaeological sites in the country. There are burial chambers, menhirs (standing stones) and the remains of Stone Age villages.
0) Where does the information contained in the article come from?
............... A book ................. .

1) Who used to be the only people allowed on some islands in southern Croatia?

2) Where does the article suggest you can eat if you don’t feel like going to a restaurant?

3) Apart from Korcula, how many more sights in Dalmatia are recommended by the writer?

4) Which Norwegian island can be dangerous unless you have adequate protection?

5) What is the name of the ship that will take you to the eastern part of Svalbard?

6) What makes the climate of Bryher different from the other islands’?

7) What makes it possible for tree ferns and cacti to grow on Tresco?

8) In addition to their natural beauty, what else are the Scilly Isles exceptionally rich in?
INFLUX OF ‘SPONGERS’ ... FROM UK

Immigrants are being accused of drug dealing, tax-dodging, sponging off the state and taking advantage of free healthcare. The immigrants are Britons – and their accusers are Bulgarians.

After all the complaints at home about migrants from eastern Europe, Britons are on the receiving end as they take advantage of Bulgaria’s low cost of living, cheap property and mild climate.

Martin Rogers, 66, who moved to Bulgaria after retiring, said locals were just jealous because British people were buying up the best properties and had more money. But Peter Kandilarov, regional director for Varna in eastern Bulgaria, said he was fed up with dealing with British troublemakers who cause problems with drugs, run unlicensed bars and dodge taxes. He said: “We are getting flooded with requests from British people who want free dental care — but do any of them pay health insurance? No.”

Cheap flights and Bulgaria’s entry into the European Union have made the country an attractive destination for Britons. At first they were welcomed but now many complain about their behaviour and alleged disregard for local laws.

Property firm Asta Bridge estimates 29 per cent of all real estate in Bulgaria is owned by foreigners – 67 per cent of them British and Irish.
0) The article says that
A) more and more Eastern Europeans are moving to Britain.
B) most Eastern Europeans in the UK are involved in crime.
C) Bulgarians are happy about the growing number of Britons in Bulgaria.
D) Bulgarians are worried about the growing number of Britons in Bulgaria.

9) One of the reasons for the tension between immigrants and locals is that
A) locals think Britons shouldn’t be allowed to buy land in Bulgaria.
B) locals think Britons make unfair use of the opportunities in Bulgaria.
C) retired people complain that prices are going up too fast.
D) rich Britons tend to look down on local people.

10) An official in Varna finds it unacceptable that many Britons
A) come to Varna after they retire.
B) spend time in unlicensed bars.
C) refuse to pay taxes for their cars.
D) show no respect for the law.

11) Britons find Bulgaria a pleasant country to live in because of
A) the welcome they get from local people.
B) the good investment opportunities that it offers.
C) a combination of various factors.
D) the chance to avoid paying taxes.

12) Bulgarian attitudes to British immigrants
A) have changed over the years.
B) are often extremely unfriendly.
C) give cause for complaint.
D) worry the British authorities.

13) Statistics show that
A) almost one third of property in Bulgaria now belongs to foreigners.
B) Britons have bought up almost two thirds of all real estate.
C) joint British-Irish investments are on the increase.
D) Asta Bridge is the most successful real estate firm in the region.
Task 3

- Read this article on the Queen of England’s finances. Some words have been left out from the text.
- Your task is to fill the gaps (14-23) with expressions from the list (A-N).
- Write your answers in the white boxes next to the numbers as in the example (0).
- Remember that there are two extra phrases that you will not need.

QUEEN ASKS FOR EXTRA £1M TO REPAIR DECREPIT PALACES

Pieces falling off historic buildings

The Queen is seeking an extra £1 million of (0)________ to save her crumbling palaces.

Matters came to a head this year when a lump of stone (14)________ fell from a Buckingham Palace façade and narrowly missed the Princess Royal’s parked car. Another piece fell off as guests arrived for a Palace reception for the scientific community.

At Windsor Castle an area of lead roof the size of the Wimbledon Centre Court and Court No.1 (15)________ is in pressing need of renewal; at Buckingham Palace two thirds of the roof is at least 120 years old, and cannot go on indefinitely with make-do patching.

Sir Alan Reid, the accountant (16)________ of the Queen’s money, said the annual government grant for the maintenance of the royal palaces had been frozen at £15 million in 1991 and had since declined (17)________ by more than two thirds in real terms.

“We are seriously behind schedule (18)________, and if our historic buildings are to remain safe it is essential that the grant is increased by £1 million a year,” Sir Alan said.

Royal officials fear that unless they can keep up a rolling programme of repairs and replacement, (19)________ will eventually become hideously expensive. They also fear that the enormous amount of construction work involved in building London’s Olympic facilities will lead to hugely (20)________ for other customers seeking skilled tradesmen.

A Palace property manager, standing in the Quadrangle and gesturing at the crumbling east façade and the three other sides in dire need of cleaning, said: “There are bound to be a lot of receptions here during the Olympics; it would be nice if visitors from around the world found such a famous building (21)________.”

Overall, this year the monarchy cost the taxpayer £37.3 million, marginally less than last year. Sir Alan described it as less than the cost of two (22)________ for every man, woman and child in the country.

The figure infuriates anti-monarchists, who point out that it ignores the huge (23)________, estimated to be at least £100 million a year but never disclosed in official figures.
A) in maintenance projects
B) the size of a shoebox
C) taxpayers’ money
D) lack of attention
E) 1st-class stamps
F) essential work
G) in good repair
H) security bill
I) combined
J) in pursuit
K) increased costs
L) in charge
M) in value

Task 4

- Read this article about an art exhibition in London and then read the gapped sentences (24-30) that follow the text.
- Your task is to fill the gaps with maximum three words based on the information in the text.
- Write your answers on the dotted lines.
- An example (0) has been given for you.

BARBARIANS AT THE GATE

It’s easy to create a work of art these days, isn’t it? The doors of the gallery have been flung wide open. No need for years of training, life classes, copying old masters. It’s all been democratised, and anyone can do it. Right?

Well, that’s what some of us at the Daily Telegraph arts desk were hoping when we came up with the idea of trying to get into the Royal Academy Summer Exhibition.

It’s the grandaddy of all open access shows, the country’s greatest opportunity – no, the world’s greatest opportunity – for painters to get their works on the walls of a prestigious gallery.

We knew the odds were stacked against us – there were, after all, almost 9,000 entries this year, and only 1,000 of them were successful. But working on the arts desk would give us a head start, surely. We look at art all the time, write about it, commission articles on it, go to art galleries.

So, with the crazy carelessness of amateur climbers trying to scale Everest in their afternoon off, we set out to make art. There were the bureaucratic hoops to jump through – registration forms, entry forms, barcodes, sticky labels. But that wasn’t the big problem. The big problem was that we are journalists.

It took Michelangelo four years to paint the Sistine Chapel, but give a journalist a deadline and he won’t think about starting until the night before. Suddenly the date for delivery was almost upon us and there were nervous questions about how long paint took to dry. One of us managed to create a sculpture without leaving the office, and on delivery day another could be seen waiting nervously on Buckingham Palace Road for a courier with an emergency framing job.

The results, though, amazed us. Even allowing for compulsory politeness to friends and colleagues, what we had produced didn’t seem too bad at all. Some had revealed unsuspected skill, others great imagination and others, well, a certain low cunning.

Did any of us get in? No. But we’d taken part in a remarkable British institution, we’d felt a sense of fellowship with the extraordinary community of have-a-go artists, and we had reawakened faculties which in some of us had lain dormant since childhood.

And we consolored ourselves with the thought cherished by rejected artists through the ages – the world isn’t ready for us yet.
0) These days the art world appears to be ....... much more democratic ...... than it used to be.

24) Every summer the Royal Academy in London has ............................................... ...................... exhibition. This means anyone can enter their paintings.

25) The writer of this article and his colleagues work for ............................................................. .

26) They knew it was going to be difficult to get into the show as there were about ............................................................. art works than places.

27) Because of their background they thought that their chances were ............................................................. ordinary people’s.

28) As journalists usually do, they didn’t start work until ............................................................. .

29) However, the quality of the finished products made them feel ............................................................. .

30) The fact that they hadn’t ............................................................. didn’t disappoint them at all; they felt that taking part had been a worthwhile experience.

This is the end of this part of the exam.

HOTEL HEAVEN

I love travelling. I enjoy (0) ______ new places. But there is something about hotel rooms which often makes me (21) ______ to turn around, rush home and lock away my suitcases forever.

Over the years I have stayed in some real “shoeboxes” around the world - rooms which have (22) ______ not only size, but also character and comfort.

But thanks to German scientists, the hotel experience is about to be transformed. They have developed a “hotel room of the future”. The idea is to show hotels how new technology can help (23) ______ .

To be honest, it looks more like a flying saucer than a hotel room - it is round, white and filled with glass and gadgets. (24) ______ my guide, scientist Mr Dreharov, research (25) ______ that straight lines and corners in hotel rooms are guaranteed to leave guests feeling depressed.

Mr Dreharov presses a button. Suddenly, everything in the room turns red ... then green ... and then blue. The bed looks like a normal double bed, but (26) ______ . As I lie down it starts moving and rocks me gently from side to side like a baby in a cradle.

There are (27) ______ other innovations in this futuristic hotel room. In the hotel bathroom of the future, you can relax in the jacuzzi and, with the help of a remote control, check your e-mails in the bathroom mirror, (28) ______ doubles as a screen. At the touch of a button the window becomes a giant video screen. I climb back onto the moving bed, settle down under the (29) ______ soft lights, and watch a film on the window. Now that's what I call hi-tech hotel heaven.

Task 4

- You are going to read an article about a new mountain in Wales. In most lines there is one word that should not be there. It is either grammatically incorrect or does not fit in with the sense of the text.
- Read the text and then copy the extra word in the space provided after each line.
- Some lines are correct. Indicate these lines with a tick (√).
- The task begins with two examples (0).

HIKERS MAKE MOUNTAIN OUT OF AN OLD WELSH HILL

0) Three hikers have made it a mountain out of an old Welsh hill.
0) Great Britain's national mapping agency said on Friday it would
30) reclassify one of Wales' peaks after three walkers conducted their
31) own survey of what had been considered just like a very high hill.
32) The agency had been listed Mynydd Graig Goch in Snowdonia as
33) 1,998 feet (608.99 meters) high, just short of the required 2,000
34) feet (609.6 meters) very needed for mountain status. But the three
35) walkers thought Mynydd Graig Goch was not more than just a hill.
36) They borrowed a surveying equipment from a Swiss company that
37) makes satellite positioning technology, and rather spent a day
38) taking the 7,000 readings which necessary to complete a survey.
39) Mynydd Graig Goch turned it out to be 2,000.5 feet (609.75
40) meters) high, as making it a mountain with a good 6 inches to
41) spare. The mapping agency was persuaded. New versions of the 42) agency’s maps, which will appear in the next few months later, will reflect Mynydd Graig Goch's newly elevated status.

This is the end of this part of the exam.

OKTATÁSI ÉS KULTURÁLIS
MINISZTÉRIUM
Welcome to the Listening component of the Matura Examination.
The listening material and the instructions are recorded on this CD, and the tasks and instructions are printed in your test booklet.

- There will be three tasks, and every recording will be played twice.
- The tasks will begin with some music, and then you will hear (and you can also read) the instructions to the task.
- This will be followed by a silent period on the CD in order to give you some time to look at the task in your test booklet before hearing the text.
- Then we will play the recording in one piece.
- After another short silent period we will play the recording for the second time, but now in shorter sections and with breaks between the sections in order to give you enough time to write down your answers.
- You will also have some time to check your work at the end of each task.

Please note that the first item in each task (marked with a tick [✓]) is always an example.
The whole test is about 30 minutes long.

Good luck!

- In this section you are going to hear a radio interview with John Pasche, a British artist.
- Your task will be to circle the letter or letters of the correct answer or answers in the boxes on the right. Please note that in this task both answers may be correct. This means you will have to circle either A or B, or both A and B.
- First, you will have some time to look at the task, and then we will play the whole recording in one piece.
- Then, after a short pause, you will hear the recording again, but this time we will play the text in shorter sections to give you enough time to write down your answers.

This is the end of TASK 2.

9 pont
In this section you will hear a report about how Canaletto, the famous 18th century painter, might help save Venice.

Your task is to decide whether the following statements are true, false or we do not know because the text does not say, and write the appropriate letter in the boxes on the right. Write A if the statement is true, write B if the statement is false, and write C if the text does not say.

First, you will have some time to look at the task, and then we will play the whole recording in one piece.

Then, after a short pause, you will hear the recording again, but this time we will play the text in shorter sections to give you enough time to write down your answers.

A = TRUE  B = FALSE  C = THE TEXT DOES NOT SAY

✓ Venice is in danger because of floods and pollution.

A flood barrier is being built near the city.

The researchers involved in the project are in Venice at the moment.

According to Mr. Camuffo, today's pollution has nothing to do with the problem.

Due to the spring floods, there are green lines of algae on the walls.

Most artists in the 18th century painted exactly what they saw.

The most important part of the camera obscura was the frosted glass surface.

Canaletto's paintings are as accurate as photographs.

Venice has changed a lot over the centuries.

The green lines of algae in Canaletto's paintings are a lot of help to scientists.

The systematic measuring of the water levels started in the 18th century.

This is the end of TASK 3, and also the end of the Listening Exam.

Task A

You are going to spend a weekend in London and you have just received an email from your British friend Robert, offering to pick you up at the airport and to take you to two of the following places during your stay:

Portobello Road Market
Portobello Road plays host to one of London's largest and most interesting street markets, which really springs into life on a Saturday. No visit to London would be complete without spending a day here.

Abbey Road
Walk this historic street in London and you are transported back to the turbulent era of the 1960s and the musical phenomenon of the Beatles.

Royal Observatory Greenwich
The prime meridian, zero degrees longitude, runs through the courtyard of the Royal Observatory in Greenwich, near London, which was founded in 1675 by King Charles II.

British Library
Divided into public and members-only areas, this superb library includes three exhibition galleries featuring the Illuminated Manuscripts display, original Shakespeare folios and the Gutenberg Bible.

Write an email of 120-150 words to Robert in which you include the following:

- tell him when your flight arrives;
- choose the two places you would like to see and give your reasons;
- mention one or two other things you would like to do in London.

Begin your email like this:

Hi, Robert,

Task B

You have been asked to write an article for the English edition of the school newspaper about the following inventions:

Write an article of about 200-250 words on how modern inventions have changed our lives. Include the following:

- how life was different before we had computers and mobile phones;
- their advantages and disadvantages;
- which other modern inventions you find useful and why.

This is the title of your article:

New electronic gadgets: blessing or curse?
